

Basic Research Innovation Collaboration Center

Powered by VT-ARC, the Basic Research Innovation Collaboration Center (BRICC) provides collaborative environments and data analytic services that support AFOSR's mission to discover, shape, and champion basic research that profoundly impacts the future Air Force. The BRICC specializes in data-driven approaches to quantitatively assess global S&T communities, research and technology trends, and innovation capacity. Our data analytics provide strategies and insights that empower AFOSR's collaborative discovery, technology transition and technology transfer (T2), and S&E workforce development efforts.
